Kawasaki have just announced a revised Versys for 2010.

Here's what they say:

"For 2010, the new Versys maintains the essential core package of its predecessor, but impressive new styling and a number of other upgrades mean it is more fun to ride than ever.

The bike has sharper new appearance accentuating its nimble, sporty nature. A number of cosmetic changes give it a slimmer, sleeker look, and the sculpted new bodywork adds further to the Versys's dynamic image.

Like an athlete, the new model exudes flexibility and strength while a more refined finish contributes to its higher-quality appearance.

Enhanced pillion comfort, revised mirrors with improved visibility, new genuine accessories and optional ABS braking mean the new Versys is better equipped than ever to provide the ultimate fun street riding experience.

For the 2010 Versys, riding is believeing.

Some key features:

- Sharper new styling
- Better wind protection
- More touring potential
- More duo rider comfort
- Long-travel suspension and sporty 17" wheels
- Slim, upright riding position
- Compact, parallel twin engine, tuned for low and midrange performance"

Available colours:

- Metallic Spark Black / Metallic Flat Spark Black
- Pearl Solar Yellow / Metallic Flat Spark Black
